

Ann and Jack are a mother and son team on a mission.

They want to fill the world with kid entrepreneurs.

They want to empower kids to dream big and go after those dreams with gusto!

In the third grade, Ann's son Jack was dealt a devastating blow. He was bullied in school to the point of physical violence. At the same time he was diagnosed with Dyslexia, which meant he was not reading a grade level: yet another blow to his confidence.

Jack's self-esteem was virtually non-existent. Ann knew she had to do something to help him. She decided to help him start a business and through those efforts and other creative positive parenting techniques -- including teaching him to think like a millionaire -- she literally rebuilt his confidence and self-worth.

Ann realized she was literally teaching him millionaire traits. She was teaching him: Outlook, Attitude, Skills and Action. As she watched what she like to call her 'happy accident' blossom, Ann became more deliberate in what she was doing. She boiled those four millionaire traits into six millionaire skills and she began to consciously teach them to Jack.

Ann taught him to Dream It, Believe It, Love It, Work It, Own It and Give It.

After her amazing experience with Jack she decided to share her millionaire skills with other parents in her book, How to Raise a Millionaire; Six millionaire skills parent can teach their kids so they can imagine and live the life of their dreams.

Jack, Ann's son, has also written a book. His book How to Let your Parents Raise a Millionaire: A Kid-to-Kid view of how to make money, make a difference and have fun doing both, is the story of how Jack overcame being bullied and his learning disability. He explores how he started his own business and encourages other kids to do the same. He was a published author at the age of 12, and at 16 he speaks to adults and children alike while spreading his story of courage and perseverance.

Ann and Jack offer parents and kids the tools and encouragements they need to build a future they can bank on....no matter that the economy throws their way.

Together, Ann and Jack have developed a suite of products designed to inform, inspire, and empower kids and parents. They may be contacted at www.howtoraiseamillionaire.com.
